THE FARRAGUT TABLET UNVEILED BY DEWEY

Marking Navy Yard Commandant's House Where Great Admiral Died

The Principal Address by Hon. Frank W. Hackett, Former Assistant Secretary of Navy

Memorial Letter Read from Farragut's Lifelong Friend, Rear Admiral J. Crittenden Watson

At four o'clock this afternoon occurred the unveiling and dedication of the tablet on the commandant's house at the Portsmouth navy yard, marking it as the place where Admiral David Glasgow Farragut breathed his last. At the time of his death the great admiral had come to Portsmouth to recuperate from a run down condition and was a guest at the commandant's house, then occupied by Commodore A. M. Pennock, commandant, whose wife was a sister of Mrs. Farragut. Commodore Pennock was a rear admiral at the time of his death.

On account of the limited room about the house, the invitations were limited to members of Farragut's family connection and relatives.

those associated with him in the United States navy service, naval and army officers and their families and descendants in this vicinity, members of the Loyal Legion and of the Grand Army of the Republic, and few officials and representatives of the older families in Portsmouth and Kittery.

The ceremonies were under the charge of Capt. E. K. Moore, commandant of the yard. A stand had been erected on the lawn for the speakers, and seats arranged for the guests. Music was by the navy yard band, R. E. Reinwald director.

All work in the yard stopped at ten minutes of four and the naval officers and enlisted men in full dress uniform assembled about the party on the lawn as spectators at the ceremony. The members of the families were also permitted to attend.

The tablet is erected on the left side of the entrance to the house and was covered with the admiral's flag, the one which was flown at the peak of the Tallapoosa on his last voyage.

The ceremonies were simple, opening with prayer by the navy yard chaplain, Rev. Frank Thompson.

The unveiling was by Admiral Dewey, the survivor of America's three admirals, John Paul Jones, David Glasgow Farragut and George Dewey. He spoke extemporaneously and in a few appropriate words told of the love he had for the great admiral commemorated by the tablet, and told of his service as a young naval officer under that great hero of the Civil War and the honor that he felt it to be to first make visible to the public this memorial of that great man with whom he was in such close contact.

The playing of the national anthem by the band was then followed by the admiral's salute of seven guns from the navy yard battery.

The address of the occasion was by Hon. Frank W. Hackett of Washington, D. C., former assistant secretary of the navy.

Rear Admiral J. Crittenden Watson, U. S. N., retired, who served through the Civil War with the admiral from the hoisting of his flag on the historic Hartford, in January, 1862, and subsequently in European squadron, was expected to be present and close the ceremonies with his recollections of Farragut, but ill health compelled him to decline and he sent a letter which was read by Capt. Moore.

Mr. Hackett's address and Rear Admiral Watson's letter were as follows:

Address of Hon. F. W. Hackett

Fortunate Farragut! Fortunate in that you did so much to save the Union. Truly yours was

"A full and splendid life,

With what skill, with what daring, with what inflexibility of purpose, in to the field of perils, seen and unseen, you led the way and triumphed!

When the close of life drew near, you were fortunate in the site ordained for meeting the dread enemy. Not for you was it, like England's captain, stricken to the deck, to expire amid the roar of guns and the shouts of victory. No—not on shipboard, but at this beautiful spot—a home for the navy—almost within sound of ocean's surge, you, with tranquil mind and in perfect composure of spirit, entered upon the life eternal.

Here for all time the great admiral has fixed a shrine. How fit a place for putting off the armor—a "place full of associations to warm a sailor's heart!"

The banks of this river as early as 1761 had witnessed the building of ships-of-war for the King's service. The Revolution found the Passaic admirably suited to the work of installing the beginnings of an American navy. In '76, the Raleigh, of 32 guns, was built. From Langdon's Island, close by us here, the Ranger was launched, a little later. John Paul Jones took her, with a hardy crew drawn from this neighborhood, and sped over to the English Channel, there to make history with her. On the same island they built a ship-of-the-line, ordered by the Continental Congress, the America, a marvel of her day, whose fate it was to be given to our ally France.

When the naval war of 1812 was upon us, there came to command this station an officer freshly crowned with honors, the victor of the Constitution—Ivan Hull.

Afere, at an early period of the struggle for the Union, a ship was built under pressure of haste, yet dextrously and strongly, the Keansburg. It seems but yesterday that your speaker stood upon her deck while she gracefully slid down the ways. She, too, was heard of in the English Channel.

What I think about

I have a Household Range in my home, bought about 15 years ago. The range is used every day and it has had hard use. I do a large amount of cooking to sell, six to 10 loaves of both butter and sponge cake in a morning. Then I can fit my fire and give a cooking lesson either in the afternoon or evening, and it bakes just as well at night as it does in the morning. We like the range very much.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTOR JOHN G. TAWRESEY

Naval Constructor John G. Tawrey

Has Returned from San Francisco to the Portsmouth Navy Yard

Naval Constructor John G. Tawrey, who was ordered to the Portsmouth navy yard a month ago, to relieve Naval Constructor Stahl, arrived on Tuesday and today officially reported to the commandant of the yard.

Tomorrow he will begin active duty in the department which he left five years ago to take up the work as superintendent of construction at the Union Iron Works, San Francisco.

There is no doubt left as to the future work of the department during the term of Constructor Tawrey.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK

WAS IN PORTSMOUTH

Republican National Committee Chairman Made Flying Visit

Portsmouth had a distinguished visitor on Tuesday afternoon and evening in the person of Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Hitchcock came here from Portland where he had been in consultation with ex-Gov. John F. Hill of Augusta, Me., regarding campaign matters in the Pine Tree state. Mr. Hill is the national committee man for Maine.

The state committee members and many influential Maine Republicans were in conference with Mr.

Hitchcock and Dr. Hill at Portland. On his arrival here he learned that General Powell Clayton of Arkansas, the oldest member of the Republican national committee, was in York Harbor and went over with the former governor to see the general. On their return to Portsmouth they dined at the depot cafe and later Mr. Hitchcock left on the Flying Yankee for Boston.

age, are not surpassed by the officers of any other naval service, nor indeed by officers of our own navy, of any former period. This estimate is advanced as the fruit of long observation on the part of one who has not been without a vantage ground to look from. This tablet is going to inspire many a young man who shall see it in days to come, telling him of a public servant who marked out for himself a line of duty, and in its faithful and fearless performance brought safety and glory to his country.

The Admiral was of the old Navy—a thorough-going sailor. He had captains upon whom he could rely—splendid officers—but alike in the conception and in the execution of the plan, his was the master mind. He earned his laurels fairly. He wore them modestly. The American people will hold in everlasting honor the name of David Glasgow Farragut.

To Captain E. K. More, U. S. Navy, Commandant Portsmouth Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H.

My Dear Moore:

I am writing on the anniversary of Admiral Farragut's death, to again express our thanks to you and your good kind wife for your hospitable invitation to us—my wife and daughters and self—to be your guests at the unveiling of the tablet, in memory of Admiral Farragut, on the commandant's house, in which he died Aug. 14, 1879.

We are very sorry not to be able to come and help in this tribute to our presence.

You ask me to write some reminiscences to be read at the unveiling. I am a very poor hand at writing

YORK BEACH WIN THE FIRST GAME

In Series With York Harbor... Great Game With Big Crowd

The first of a series of baseball games between the baseball teams at York Harbor and Beach, was played at the Beach on Tuesday afternoon and it was a great game. The Beach aggregation played fine ball and Hazelton who was pitching had the goods. He was hit for seven hits but he scattered them in as many innings and with good support pulled his game out of the fire by timely hitting. The Harbor team had Gleason & Haverhill in the box and he was very effective with the exception of the first inning when the hits were bunched and two runs scored. His team mates played an errorless game and gave him great support, but their inability to hit when they meant runs lost them the game. The Harbor team has several of the Somersworth team, Lucia, Maule and McGarry being in their line up which has been greatly strengthened for this series.

The second game in the series will be played this afternoon and like yesterday a great game is looked for.

PISCATAQUA PIONEERS

Additional Transaction at Annual Meeting on Tuesday

In addition to the business reported in yesterday's Herald, the Piscataqua Pioneers at their annual meeting on Tuesday, transacted the following after the paper went to press:

At the business meeting the following new members were elected: Rev. George M. Bolte of Boston, Mrs. W. D. McKinney, Columbus, O., Justin H. Shaw, Kittery, Oliver R. Grant New York, and Charles A. Hazlett of this city.

The following committee were appointed to make arrangements for the next reunion: Albert H. Lamson, Alexander Bennett, Moses A. Gafford, Alice J. Moore and John Seales.

Following the exercises at the Chamber of commerce the party visited the following points of interest about Kittery: Sparhawk Hall, the old depot, and Bay House, first Congressional parsonage, site of the first settlement by Alexander Starkey, Hill Penry and the grave of William Whipple, the father of the signer of the declaration of independence.

The celestial display that was such an attractive feature of the evenings last spring, has now been transferred to the eastern skies and for the next two months it will repay anyone to rise about three or four o'clock in the morning and enjoy for a few minutes the dazzling splendor of the planets and stars.

Prominent Turks Disposed of at Bidding of Sultan.

CONFESS OF ZIA BEY.

As Head of Secret Police He Has Ruined Many Public Officials--
Resources of the Empire Manipulated For Benefit of Sultan and Chamberlains--Ezad Pasha Also Tells of Wholesale Robbery.

London, Aug. 26.--Zia Bey, the former head of Turkey's secret police, who is in refuge in London, in an interview said:

"I am glad to be here, and it is not possible that I will ever return to Turkey. You must remember that, at the bidding of my superiors, I have been the means of ruining ministers, officers and government officials, and 179 Turks, many of them members of the most honorable families, disappeared during my term of office."

It mattered not who the persons were to be removed, the orders from the yildiz kiosk (residence of the sultan) were implicitly obeyed. To be denounced by the secret police was sufficient to ruin anyone. Can you wonder that Turkey has seen the last of me?"

The post as an administrative machine ceased to exist twenty-five years ago; since then all the power has been centered in the yildiz kiosk. I do not blame the sultan entirely, nor the chamberlains entirely. Their power rested in a sort of working agreement which enabled them to manipulate the resources of the empire in their own interests.

Ezad Pasha, the sultan's secretary, is reputed to have saved $5,500,000, which he has invested in the United States. The sultan himself has at least $15,000,000 invested in Europe, this amount being his percentages on titles from contractors for war stores and army and navy supplies. I often reflected that this could not go on forever, but the end came quicker than most of us expected."

Zia Bey explained the difficulties he had experienced in making his escape from Turkey. The sultan, he said, warned him to flee, and he had to shoot a man dead who tried to prevent his embarking, despite the disguise he had adopted.

EZAD PASHA'S STORY.

Constantinople, Aug. 26.--Ezad Pasha, one of the most brilliant Turkish officers in the Russo-Turkish war, who was exiled for being identified with the Young Turk party in 1902, but who recently was restored to his rank as field marshal and returned to Constantinople, speaking of his exile and imprisonment at Brusia, said that before his deportation without trial or warning, his life was attempted fourteen times, his struggle against the infamous palace rule involving him in dangers of all kinds.

"It is the fashion to say that the sovereign is ignorant of the fearful crimes committed in his name, but his majesty must have sheaves of reports in my handwriting reciting the mysteries of the camilla for years past. Every Ottoman functionary was compelled to be an accomplice to a greater or lesser degree in the wholesale robbery which has made Turkey a byword. Comparatively honest men were drawn into the meshes and once there it was impossible to resist rowing in the same boat. To refuse to take part in these proceedings and resign was not enough, for then he became the object of persecutions and paid dearly for his temerity in the end."

"I ask you whether the mere granting of a constitution at the sword's point is sufficient to blot out the memory of the sufferings of thousands like myself who have undergone far worse physical and mental tortures than I have? If, however, the sultan henceforth sets his face against the abuses he formerly favored he has nothing to fear, but he must be warned that the slightest symptom of tampering with the nation's rights and liberties will be the signal for his downfall. That he has for so long a time been unchallenged is largely the fault of one or two European powers, whose interest lay in maintaining Turkey's weakness as a power. We now look chiefly to Great Britain and France to favor our liberties."

GIRL WHIRLED TO DEATH.

Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 26.--Concetta Impresario, aged 16, was whirled around a shaft at the Star Worsted company mills and sustained injuries from which she soon died. It was within three minutes of closing time when a sleeve of the girl's coat was caught by a belt and she was whirled over, striking the floor above. Many bones of the body were broken.

CRUISER IDLE FIVE YEARS.

Constantinople, Aug. 26.--The armored cruiser Midilli, which was built by the Gramps at Philadelphia for the Turkish government in 1903 and which has been tied up at her moorings here for five years, is preparing to make her first trip since arriving in Turkey. The cruiser will soon proceed to Smyrna to welcome the Greek squadron.

THE MOROCCAN PROBLEM.

Honey & Apparently the Goat Around Which It Revolves,

Paris, Aug. 26.--The position of France with regard to Morocco as a result of the defeat of the sultan of record, Abd-el-Aziz, by his brother, Mulai Hafid, is substantially as follows:

Mulai Hafid's victory and his promotion as sultan at Tangier apparently make him the master of Morocco. However, to continue as sultan de facto he must levy taxes; to levy taxes he must maintain an army with which to impress and hold the feble tribesmen, and to maintain an army he must have money. For gold Hafid must look to Europe; without it he cannot hope to endure. It would be tactless and ridiculous for the powers instantly to throw themselves at the feet of Mulai Hafid and half him as the new ruler of Morocco. He must be shown that the powers are necessary to him and not that he is necessary to the powers.

When France and Spain agree that the time for action has arrived the signatories to the Algeciras act will be invited again to study the situation and Mulai Hafid probably will be recognized. Hafid must promise much to subscribe to the Algeciras act, to bring about the pacification of the country, to protect Europeans, and to maintain a friendly attitude toward the needed civilization in Morocco. But above all he must for the moment be allowed to "cool off," which will give time for the situation to become more tranquil.

EARL IS AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Artist Charged With Assault Upon His "Affinity."

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 26.--Ferdinand P. Earle, the artist of affinity fame, was arrested at his home near Monroe yesterday afternoon, charged with assault alleged to have been committed on his wife on Aug. 16, twelve days after the birth of their child. Earle pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice Carpenter at Monroe and was held to await the action of the october grand jury, the magistrate having no jurisdiction to dispose of his case. Earle declined to give bail and was locked up in the county jail at Goshen. Mrs. Earle, accompanied by her baby and a nurse, hurried away in an automobile to Central Valley, where she will remain with friends.

It was last summer that Earle first came into public notice. At that time he easily announced that he had urged his wife to go to her home in France and sue him for a divorce. He also stated that his wife had agreed to take this course in order to enable him to marry his "affinity," Julia Kutter, Resident of Monroe, were indignant and twice attacked the artist, but he bravely defied the nobs and his courage saved him.

Later Mrs. Earle and her children sailed for France. There Mrs. Earle secured a divorce. Earle and Miss Kutter were then married. They went abroad for a trip and when they returned they went to the artist's new mansion at Monroe. Sightseers flocked to the Earle house, and Earle finally installed a swarm of bees to keep people away. Earle has an independent fortune, is an artist, and has studied in the best French and Italian schools.

FLOOD DISASTER FEARED.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 26.--There have been unprecedented rains in the Piedmont section of South Carolina, resulting in great damage to property, forcing power plants to close down, thus cutting off the source of power of a number of cotton mills, electric plants and other enterprises. Spartanburg county is under water as the result of the heavy rain that has been falling for forty-eight hours. A dozen or more bridges were washed away yesterday afternoon. A repetition of the disaster of 1903 is feared.

MEXICO WAS MISTAKEN.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 26.--Ambassador Creel, Mexican ambassador to the United States, arrived here last night from Washington en route to Chihuahua. In an interview he said: "I find that my government was mistaken in the report sent us about residents on the American side of the Rio Grande giving assistance to the desperados who recently caused trouble in Mexico. There is a perfect understanding between the two governments."

TOO ACTIVE IN POLITICS.

Batavia, N. Y., Aug. 26.--Archibald Sanders, collector of internal revenue for the western district of New York, admits that President Roosevelt has asked for his resignation from that office. Sanders refuses to discuss the matter further. Sanders is said to have been active in politics with the Wadsworth faction, which is opposed to the reelection of Congressman Porter of Niagara Falls.

THE HISGEN NOTIFICATION.

New York, Aug. 26.--The ceremony of notification to the independence party candidates, Thomas J. Hisgen and John T. Graves, which had been set for Aug. 29 has been postponed to Aug. 31. The postponement was necessary on account of Hisgen's activity in the Vermont campaign, which will permit him to reach this city before the last day of the month.

BIG BROKERAGE HOUSE FAILS.

A. O. Brown & Co. of New York Forced to Suspend.

LIABILITIES ARE HEAVY.

Estimated to Run Well Above a Million Dollars--Members of Several Exchanges and Maintained Expensive Offices--Transactors Tangled and New York Exchange Had Ordered an Inquiry.

New York, Aug. 26.--The failure of the big brokerage firm of A. O. Brown & Co. for a sum popularly estimated as running well above $1,000,000 sent a nervous thrill through the stock market. Coming as it did to the bewildering trading in last Saturday's market, the suspension created an extraordinary degree of public interest, but was looked upon by high stock exchange interests as offering an early solution of the tangle growing out of the most remarkable two hours' session the New York Stock Exchange has known in many years.

There is a feeling of apprehension lest other firms might unwittingly be drawn into the affair as a result of the extensive orders scattered through commission houses during Saturday's spectacular proceedings. The transactions of A. O. Brown & Co. covered nearly 35 percent of the trading in the sensational weekend session of the stock market, and it was said by a member of the firm that delivery had been made on only 277,000 of the more than 700,000 shares handled. How many of the outstanding shares represent the dealings of customers and how many were carried on the firm's account is impossible to learn.

Announcement of the failure was made on the Stock Exchange when the market was ranging from one to three points higher than the closing of Monday. There had been heavy buying during the morning hours, presumably on the part of brokers attempting to fill the unopened orders of Saturday, and for three hours were maintained, however, at a decline.

A. O. Brown & Co. were members of the New York Stock Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Chicago Stock Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade and the Cleveland Stock Exchange. They had branch houses in Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Erie, Pa., and Toronto. In this city they maintained expensive branch offices in four of the fashionable hotels and at two uptown addresses. Their principal office was at 30 Broad street. Within the past few months the firm had spent $75,000 in refurbishing the Broad street home. The branches in the Waldorf-Astoria and at the Plaza hotels were elaborately decorated and furnished. The membership of the firm included Albert C. Brown, Lewis G. Young, G. L. Stout, Edward F. Bushman, Samuel C. Brown and W. R. Whitteman.

Private wires were maintained to all principal cities. Although organized only in the latter part of 1902, the firm had come to take a prominent part in trading on the Stock Exchange floor. John W. Rhoads, cashier of the firm, was named as president.

It was last summer that Earle first came into public notice. At that time he easily announced that he had urged his wife to go to her home in France and sue him for a divorce. He also stated that his wife had agreed to take this course in order to enable him to marry his "affinity," Julia Kutter, Resident of Monroe, were indignant and twice attacked the artist, but he bravely defied the nobs and his courage saved him.

After Official Warning to Stop Work

Had Been Given--Rescue Work

Stopped to Shore Up Other Walls

--Contractors in Charge of Building Arrested For Manslaughter.

Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 26.--Quickly, and without warning, a forty-five-foot high brick wall in Chelsea square collapsed, burying seven of its several workmen. Eight were killed outright or died in ambulances on the way to the hospitals. About twenty others were injured, eleven of whom were taken to hospitals and some of whom are seriously injured. A number of others escaped with but minor bruises. The victims were all Russian Jews and Italians.

Five minutes before the collapse of the wall Inspector of Buildings Weymouth had ordered the foreman of the gang to stop work in the excavation at the foot of the wall which crumbled.

It was planned to build a four-story house on the spot, which was the site of the old Academy of Music. To the left stood the Odd Fellows building and postoffice, which was destroyed by the great fire of April 12 last. The wall which fell upon the workmen stood against the Park hotel on the other side. Large beams of wood were being fitted into this old wall, in order that it might be utilized for the new structure. It is claimed that the wall was undermined by large holes that were dug into it, and that with no proper support above, it gave way.

Building Inspector Whitney had just left the excavation and was but a few rods away when the mass of bricks and mortar fell down upon the gang of men who were at work there. The collapse came unexpectedly, and only a few of the workmen had time to jump to safety.

Following the collapse a crowd of white-clad citizens gathered about the scene to

SOME FRUIT FIGURES

A man in Providence, R. I., has taken the trouble to estimate the number of pear and apple trees in the United States. He is a merchant named White. His figures are that the country contains 201,794,632 apple trees and 17,716,181 pear trees.

He figures Missouri as the great apple state with 20,040,339 trees, while New York is second with 15,051,832 trees.

California is set down as the leading state for pear growers with 2,612,890 trees and New York as coming next with 2,083,909 trees.

As apple growing states he ranks Maine sixteenth in the country with 4,184,781 trees, and New Hampshire as twenty-third with 2,034,398 trees.

As pear-growing states he places Maine and New Hampshire as thirty-sixth and thirty-eighth with 33,922 and 38,287 trees, the thirty-seventh being not a state but a territory, New Mexico with 39,817 trees.

The Providence Sunday Journal devotes a large amount of space to Mr. White's estimates and ideas upon fruit and treats him as an authority upon the subject. It must be admitted that his figures would look better if in round numbers. They are the best to be had, however, and our readers can set their own judgment upon the question of reliability.

To us the real interesting thing in the whole matter is the statement that notwithstanding their small proportion of the whole crop, the principal supply of apples for export is from the three states of New York, New Hampshire and Maine, and that New York city, Boston, Mass., and Portland, Me., are the three apple export cities. The exports of last season were 181,790 barrels and 285,906 boxes, an equivalent of 398,765 barrels from New York, 434,852 barrels from Boston and 123,928 from Portland. The Canadian export from all ports was 1,128,978 barrels.

The total export from the United States was 1,461,515 barrels and from the two countries 2,593,521 barrels.

That looks like a good many apples, but remember that this Providence man says there are 201,794,632 apple trees in the United States alone.

Apple growers in this vicinity will probably continue to sell in the same old markets.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEWS

The state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will be held in Keene Wednesday, Sept. 16, and will open at ten o'clock in the forenoon. There are two candidates for the state presidency of the order, Mr. Flemming of Manchester, the present incumbent, and John Parsons, superintendent of the water department of Somersworth.

The Rochester Record, a weekly paper, has been purchased by Henry K. Dow, son of the Methodist minister, Rev. David B. Dow. The retiring editor, Clarence D. Claffin, has gone to his home in Philadelphia. Mr. Dow is a college graduate.

Joseph Girard, a young naturalist of Franklin, is getting together a collection of the snakes common to this latitude. He already has several nice specimens preserved in pickle-jars. Some of the specimens are considered rare. Young Girard entered upon the study of natural history last year and got a collection of butterflies and moths which attracted much attention at an exhibition conducted by the Audubon society at the library. This year he has made another collection of moths and butterflies, exceeding last year's effort.

Three boys, convicted of stealing apples, were sentenced by a Lynn justice to be spanked by their parents, and a policeman was detailed to see that the court's decree was carried out. Time was when a boy could have a spanking without suffering the humiliation of having a policeman see him getting it.

Champ Clark is to be the next leader of the Democrat party on the floor of the United States House of Representatives.

Amos W. Whipple of Pattee Hill, Goffstown, is the owner of a freak calf, the like of which has never been known in that vicinity. Its body is covered with black wool resembling that of a sheep. The animal is perfect in every way.

A peculiar error in recent tax assessments came to light at Keene recently when William H. Elliott notified the city authorities that lands assessed for taxes against the estate of the late George A. Wheelock were the same which he deeded to the city in November, 1897, as a part of Roche Hood forest, on Beech hill, which he presented to the city at that time. The assessors failed to note the change of title in 1898, and have still continued to overlook it. Mr. Wheelock paid taxes on this land until his death, not noticing that the place was included, and his executor, Mr. Elliott, paid likewise until this year, when he checked up the property taxed to the estate and discovered the error. He now asks the city to refund $102 erroneously paid for taxes on the same.

As pear-growing states he places Maine and New Hampshire as thirty-sixth and thirty-eighth with 33,922 and 38,287 trees, the thirty-seventh being not a state but a territory, New Mexico with 39,817 trees.

People Already Know In This District

Hon. Frank D. Currier has formally announced that he is a candidate for a fifth term in Congress from the second New Hampshire district. It does not appear necessary for Hon. Cyrus A. Sullivan to make any formal announcement of this nature in the first district, as it has come to be generally understood that his candidacy is definite and permanent, — the only Democrat.

At True Here as in Iowa

A certain newspaper man in Iowa relates an experience. If it might shed some light on the mail-order business, says an exchange, he was at the town depot and saw a farmer friend receive a wire from Chicago. He attempted to prove to the latter that he was making a mistake, as any local dealer would furnish him with the same or better goods just as cheap, and the profit would be kept at home. "But," said the farmer, "this is the first time I ever heard there is an implement store in this town. I have taken your paper five years and have never seen a line of advertising about such an institution in all that time. But you can bet Chicago has kept me posted." —Farmington News.

The Killing of Anais

When a man has pilloried his wife, by bringing suit for divorce before the law and naming a co-respondent, he has, forfeited—or waived—the privilege of appealing to the unwritten law. The act of bringing suit implies an ability to reason calmly, and the disappearance of the counsels of sheer frenzy, on which a defense or excuse for his acts might be based. It also puts the woman outside the pale of the husband's protection and strips him of his right to take any act in her behalf or in vindicating their marital relations.

The brother of an injured husband has no standing in the matter at all. He has never been the wife's protector, and his honor is not touched by her conduct. His status is no higher than that of the member of a White Cap mob which violates the law in vindication of its own peculiar idea of the properties. If he intervenes, and makes himself an accessory of the husband in the murder of the man in the case, he cannot plead before a jury the same movement in mitigation of the offense, for he is a rank outsider.—New York Mail.

Guaranteed Deposits

If we had the bank guarantee system in vogue, and a bank would go to the wall, where would the other banks get the money to pay the depositors? Why, from the people, of course, the saving mechanic, the honest tradesman, the widow and all other people who use banks to get their returns from and do their current business with. You cannot get $300,000 from the air or a pot buried in the back yard, but from all the people who work and save and plan for coming days.

The bank guarantee system would tend to make both the banks and depositors reckless. The former would make greater risks because they would not have to face the resentment of people who lose, and the latter would patronize indifferently reckless and reliable bankers because they cannot lose. But the reckless banker would have the preference, because he would make the greater promises. So the project would turn out to be a scheme to encourage wildcat banking.—Ohio State Journal.

Things Omitted

Mr. Sherman made a very effective retort to Mr. Bryan's attempt to bury his past by clinging himself upon everything left out of the Democratic platform, which is thus a sort of index expurgatorius of his political convictions. Told Mr. Sherman:

"Republican declarations once in our platform and no longer there are omitted because they have become accomplished facts. On the other hand, Democratic declarations have been abandoned because the voters have pronounced them to be unwise and unsafe and unsuited to our times and our country."—New York Tribune.

FIGHT EXPRESS RATES

Colonel John Pender represented the Portsmouth board of trade Monday at a conference held in Manchester under the auspices of the New Hampshire state board. The meeting was to decide on action in regard to the increased express rates, Colonel Pender being on the state board's committee. It was decided to make a vigorous fight before the New Hampshire railroad commission at the hearing Sept. 1 in Concord. The attorneys engaged are Taggart, Tuttle, Burroughs and Wyman.

REPUBLICAN CITY COMMITTEE MEET

Discuss New Caucus Law Which Takes Effect At This Election

A special meeting of the Republican city committee was held on Tuesday evening at the Court house. All the members were present and there was a great interest taken in the matters under discussion. The new caucus law was under consideration as this is the first time that it comes into force. Under the new law all caucuses for the convention both democrat and republican must be held on September 8, at which time the delegates and an alternate for each delegate must be elected.

Plans were talked over for the caucuses and for the campaign this fall. The meeting was called at the request of the state chairman and the same request has been made to all of the city and town committees throughout the state.

THE THEATRICAL FOLKS

She is an American Girl

All kinds of women walk through fiction and pass across the infinite stage in strange and wonderful disguises, wrapped in mantles of Isabella and Shaw cut, but not one of these are familiar to us, as the clean-cut, high-bred, sweet American girl whose nerves are strong and healthy from environment and out-of-door life. This is the kind of woman that American theatre-goers would like to see upon the stage and if she has temperament, so much the better for herself and the audience. "Miss Petticoats" is a magnetic play, full of that strong attraction that can only spring from the true environment of the characters and they have a remarkable setting in that quaint old seaport of New Bedford with its legends and old tales of the sea that run through the strong, stirring book like old wine. At Music Hall, Portsmouth, Sept. 5.

East Lynne

Lovers of the emotional drama, and their names are legion, will be pleased to learn that the greatest of all emotional dramas "East Lynne" will be at Music Hall, Portsmouth next Sept. 19. Lady Isabel in the lighter scenes of the play youth and beauty, enable her to be most effective and charming, while the depth and variety of her opened art render her scenes in the more sombre portions of the drama models of intensity and passion. The engagement is for one night only.

FARRAGUT THE GENTLEMAN

Recollection of a Pleasing Incident in the Great Admiral's Career

To the Editor of the Herald:—Assuming that any incident recalling the delightful personality of that grand old sea warrior, Admiral Farragut, is worthy of publication at this time in view of the memoria unrolling on the morrow, the writer takes from "Memory's golden casket" that which, while not of exceptional importance, will be read with interest, as it appears in print for the first time.

In the early fall of 1866 the writer, then twenty-one years of age, was night editor of the Erie, Pa., Dispatch and was appointed on the committee to receive President Andrew Johnson and party engaged in "swinging 'round the Circle" and was presented to President Johnson, Secretaries Seward and Welles, Postmaster-General Randall, Generals Grant and Custer and other notabilities but the one whose general appearance left the most happy impression was Admiral Farragut whom I then met for the only time in my life.

Near the railway station a platform had been erected and after the presentation of the members of the reception committee to the distinguished visitors the latter, headed by President Johnson, were escorted to the platform and each, in turn, presented to the throng surrounding the platform. President Johnson, in hand, leading off in the cheering as each of his fellow travelers was presented.

I clearly recall that Gen. Grant and Secretary Seward came forward with downcast head as I advanced at or bowed with the whole performance but dear old Farragut rolled rapidly along to the front of the platform, his face wreathed in smiles as if he was having the time of his life or was making the best of a disagreeable outing. At all events the gallant sailor "caught the crowd."

The gipsy moth men are now at work on the navy yard, assisted by prisoners.

Mrs. John H. Storer of Boston was injured at 11:30 a. m. today in a collision between her automobile and an electric car. She and son Robert and chauffeur were returning to the Champernowne Hotel from a call at Prof. Roland Thaxter's on Cutts Island. The eastbound Atlantic Shore Line mail car was rounding the sharp curve in front of the Hotel Parkfield when the chauffeur attempted to pass to the rear. The end of the car projects considerably beyond the curve of the track and it is supposed that the chauffeur did not make sufficient allowance for that. The left side of the automobile was smashed and the hood crushed down upon the occupants while the whole spun around in a narrow circle. When the automobile was stopped, Mrs. Storer was found to have sustained a serious shaking up and a bad cut on the forehead. She was cared for at the Parkfield and recovered sufficiently for removal to the Champernowne where she is staying. The damage to the automobile is estimated at $200. The trolley car lost some steps and some rear windows, but was in condition to finish the run.

ALLEN WINTER WINS $50,000 TROTTING STAKE

The Event Of The Trotting World
Pulled Off Yesterday At Readville

A Handicap Event With 34 Horses Starting
Largest Attendance Ever Seen In New England

Readville Track, Aug. 25.—The special trains bearing the last of the arrivals at Readville track had hardly reached the course yesterday when the drivers of the horses constituting the first division of the $50,000 American trotting Derby were called to the judge's stand to receive instructions relating to the start of the race. The different marks from which the horses were to start stood out prominently on the track, and from the grandstand the entire view was far more distinct than many had imagined.

Hardly had the bell for the start of the first heat been given than the lead handicap horses, those at the 2.15 mark, had dashed by the immense crowd in front of the lawn and grandstand and the biggest race in the history of the American trotting field was fairly on.

There was some little disappointment, of course, that four of the horses in whom the last payment had been made were scratch, leaving a field of 34, when 38 had been expected. Thirty-four, however, were far more than the association having held would start when the handicap was first announced.

By the time the horses were on the track for the first heat all kinds of bets were about as to probable winners. One had been Green stallion The Huntsman, placed on the 2.11 mark, was about as good a proposition as there was in the field. Then there was another tip out that Rind's gelding, Beyvaldo, whose racing in the past had been confined to the half-mile tracks of New Jersey, had a mighty good chance to cap on first place.

Leo McDonald, with three winners to his credit on the opening day, was predicted by many, would keep up his record, and win with his entry, Allen Winter, on the 2.10 line. Another bit of inside information made San Francisco have the race as good as won and there was another that Bob Coronado would spread eagle his bold from the 2.10 mark. So it went down through the list. There was hardly a horse but had the best prospects according to some volunteer Noester.

Ahead of the scratch horse on the 2.07 mark, a distance of 199 feet, was that good race mare, Margaret O., driven by the South Carolina reinman, Bob Davis. Then came a lap of another 199 feet farther in front, where Myron McFertry's Lough Jack and Andy McDowell's Dewitt fairly glided under restraint while being kept as quiet as possible for the word.

At the 2.11 mark in the first heat were Beyvaldo and Gentle H., each supposed to have better than an average chance, along with Bob Proctor's Cuban and Harvey Ernst's Dahlia, and still farther ahead of these on the 2.11, 2.12, 2.13, 2.11 and 2.15 marks respectively, were the other starters of the first heat.

This same method was used on all of the heats and the result was very satisfactory.

To make a long story short, Allen Winter with Leo McDonald up was the winner and will get $30,000 as her share of the purse. Prince C. was second, San Francisco, third, Ralph Wick, fourth, The Huntsman fifth, and Peter Balta sixth, the time was 2.16.

The dash was witnessed by it is estimated 50,000 people, the largest crowd that have paid admission to any sporting event in New England.

Leo McDonald, with three winners to his credit on the opening day, was predicted by many, would keep up his record, and win with his entry, Allen Winter, on the 2.10 line.

Another bit of inside information made San Francisco have the race as good as won and there was another that Bob Coronado would spread eagle his bold from the 2.10 mark. So it went down through the list. There was hardly a horse but had the best prospects according to some volunteer Noester.

Hardly had the bell for the start of the first heat been given than the lead handicap horses, those at the 2.15 mark, had dashed by the immense crowd in front of the lawn and grandstand and the biggest race in the history of the American trotting field was fairly on.

There was some little disappointment, of course, that four of the horses in whom the last payment had been made were scratch, leaving a field of 34, when 38 had been expected. Thirty-four, however, were far more than the association having held would start when the handicap was first announced.

By the time the horses were on the track for the first heat all kinds of bets were about as to probable winners. One had been Green stallion The Huntsman, placed on the 2.11 mark, was about as good a proposition as there was in the field. Then there was another tip out that Rind's gelding, Beyvaldo, whose racing in the past had been confined to the half-mile tracks of New Jersey, had a mighty good chance to cap on first place.

TALK OF NEW YORK

Gossip of People and Events Told in Interesting Manner.

World's Capital Consumed by Women

NEW YORK.—A curious person went to the trouble of having counted the number of people who went into the Waldorf-Astoria one Saturday recently. The total was 18,495.

At each entrance a man was stationed with a mechanical counter which he pressed every time anybody went in. There is no doubt that the count is substantially accurate. It does not include the employees' entrance or the people who live in the hotel but who did not happen to go out and in that day. The Waldorf-Astoria is only one of New York's big hotels. It has about one-fifth of the total luxury class hotel accommodations. If the same proportionate rate prevails in the other hotels there are 100,000 people a day go to them.

Or the visitors the majority were women. At the ladies' door on Thirty-fourth street 3,517 entered, and on Thirty-third street 2,599. These women must have money to spend and the time to spend, or they would not be thronging the big, expensive hotels. They must lack more pressing occasion or they would be attending to it and not promenading Peacock alley or sitting in the Palm room or attending club meetings and afternoon relaxes.

Besides the money that they spend at the hotel there is the enormously greater expenditure for their apparel, jewelry and millinery. Where does the money come from to pay for all this? Somebody must earn it. Somebody must work for it. It must represent the surplus from some one's earnings over the expenditures of the examiner.—Ambassador Bryce.

Perils of Utilitarianism.

Any nation which should so narrow its energies as to follow what we called purely practical lines would soon fall behind its competitors, and see its intellectual life fade and wither. Any university which so restricted its field would be unworthy of its calling, and would discharge even the prettiest part of its high functions far less effectively.

Her Age.

A woman in Ohio was refused a license to marry because she gave her age as 30 when in reality she was 80. Now, as needing to proverbial philosophy, a woman is as old as she feels, and if this woman felt like 30 after twice marrying and becoming a grandmother, she should have been encouraged for the sake of public policy in her persistent grasp on juvencility.

Value of the Smile.

What the sunshine is to all material nature, quickening all life, giving to all beauty, color and fragrance, brightening even dead matter with glow of gold, and giving true gold itself a higher glister, so the smile is to human life, masking sorrows and disappointments easier to bear and giving to joys themselves a richer sweetness.

Work as a Necessity.

Work is as necessary to material advancement as are air and water to life. A man can gain nothing by standing idly by, except the name of a drone in the human hive, who exists by the sweat of others. You must be up and doing if you would advance. You must not wait for opportunity, but create the opportunity for yourself.

Giving More Difficult Than Getting.

The difficulty which is faced in America in connection with philanthropy is not to find the people who have the money to give, but to discover the ways in which money may be given wisely. Ideas for wise giving are much scarcer than money awaiting opportunity.

Putting Away Trouser.

In folding trousers for traveling or packing purposes, put the waist buttons together and pull the trousers down quite tight, so that the enter seems about an inch in front of the inner; fold them over half their length, and then put them into whatever receptacle awaits them.

He Proved His Courage.

A young lady of our town told her sweet-heart she wouldn't marry him until he had done something brave. He started to court the girl next door, and the next night the second night that he was the bravest man she had ever met.—Santa Barbara Enterprise-Gazette.

Large Cataract.

"My poor man!" exclaimed the benevolent old lady. "How did you lose your sight?" "Well, you see, ma'am, it was this way," explained the blind beggar: "I once went over Niagara falls in a barrel and I got a cataract in the eye."—Philadelphia Record.

Kick High Up.

"If you're not to kick," said Uncle Tom, "go to bed upstairs. I hate to see so many people tellin' de trouble to go off to bed, and den havin' an' scrappin' when de man dat sho' und makes de mischeef comin' in!"—Washington Star.

Why Men Refuse to Teach.

The teacher may have a personality that commands respect in spite of his failing, but outside of his special work he is regarded by business men slightly, as an imprudent visionary.

To Clean Plaster of Paris.

To clean plaster of paris ornaments cover the entire surface with a thick layer of starch. Let it dry thoroughly, and when it is brushed off the dirt will come with it.

Gossip.

Gossip is a sort of smoke that comes from the dirty tobacco pipes of those who diffuse it; it proves nothing but the bad taste of the smoker.—George Eliot.

Kind Man.

"Don't follow me, pop," said the good-natured man to the last day. "I haven't any more home than you have. I live in a flat"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Never Satisfied.

Make a man a present of a four-cylinder automobile, and the probability are that he will regret that it isn't a six-cylinder affair.

The Long Climb.

It is said that a man begins to go down hill at 19 but a good many people feel that the uphill climb begins at that age.

Daily Thought.

Poetry in this life springs from acquaintance even in disagreeable things, not in exemption in bearing them.—Fenelon.

The Average Woman.

The average woman considers it a compliment if she is told she resembles an actress.—Atchison Globe.

Human Nature.

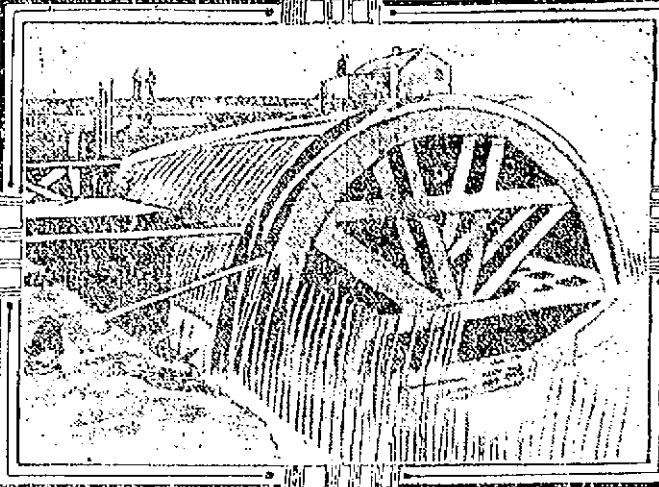

"We with our judgments as our witnesses are just alike, yet each believes his own Pope."

Keep It in Your Mind.

Make yourself a sheep and the wolves will eat you.—Italian.

BIGGEST SEWER IN WORLD

ST. LOUIS BUILDING AN IMMENSE DRAINAGE SYSTEM

more credit for its enterprise on that account.

The big sewers of Paris have gained a world-wide notoriety; sewers in which the criminal classes could hide and escape detection, and big enough to permit bat-sized boats sailing through them. But now one American city at least has, or rather has in the course of construction, a sewer which exceeds in size anything which Paris possesses, or any other city of the world, for that matter. It is big enough to permit a big tug to steam through its bricked and cemented walls. It is known as the Harlan Creek sewer and will be 29 feet in diameter in its largest section, and from 27 feet to 48 feet in the smaller sections, the main section and the two branches measuring over four miles in extent and the whole draining more than 6,000 acres of land. There are longer sewers than this, and there are drainage systems, not sewers, which drain much larger tracts of land, but there is no sewer in the world that combines such great size with extent of area drained, and there is no city drainage system in the world that may way compares with it.

To the average person a 20-foot sewer means nothing at all, because one man or woman knows little about sewers; but to engineers and contractors it means something stupendous in sewer construction. Sixteen feet has heretofore been the extreme size for city sewers, and most sewers are from 10 to 12 feet in diameter, with branch lines very much smaller. In some cases only a foot or 14 inches in diameter. When these figures are considered and compared with the dimensions of the Harlem Creek sewer, even the uninitiated can fail to see what an enormous work the city of St. Louis has in hand in its new sewer. The Harlan Creek sewer is nearly twice as large in its internal diameter as any other sewer yet built. From its lowest point to the top of the arch it is more than twice the height of a high-ceilinged room and almost three times the height of the ordinary modern ceilings. From the surface of the water when the sewer runs at ordinary capacity to the top of the arch it is 19 feet 6 inches, or half again the height of the ordinary room. Gasoline launches could sail up this sewer without difficulty at any stage of water, and when the flow is low a tugboat would have no trouble in rounding from one end of the large section to the other. The bottom of the sewer were level, a loaded car could drive through it and still have room to spare at the top.

The Harlan Creek sewer was begun July 13, 1907, and Sewer Committee President Farwell expects to have the main section, or that section running from Flushing Avenue to the river, completed within another year. The entire system will probably not be finished for three or four years more, and all the connecting lines will not be laid till the section drained becomes more thickly populated.

The popular idea of large sewers has been gained from the build pictures which Victor Hugo and Eugene Sue have drawn of the sewers of Paris, and from what the many less illustrious writers have said of the sewers of London and other European cities. London has the most complicated and longest sewer system owing to its great extent and enormous population, but there is no city in Europe, as there are none of any size in America except St. Louis which does not have to treat the sewage before discharging it.

The elaborate pumping stations which the sewer departments of New York and Chicago are obliged to maintain for sanitary reasons cost those cities thousands of dollars every year, while such of the children of the community as are between the ages of ten and ten, both for the wrong they have done and the wrong they are going to do. The happiness of these children, who have paid the penalty of their misdeeds for a year in advance, is difficult to estimate. The sewage problem is, say engineers, one of the simplest with which St. Louis has to deal, for it purifies itself without artificial assistance. The sewage problem is, say engineers, one of the simplest with which St. Louis has to deal, for it purifies itself.

There is all the more remarkable that the city should be able to boast of the largest sewer in existence. In most instances great difficulties have overcome the way to great results, but here in a case of a great result without the stimulus of a great difficulty, the city should take all the

THE WEATHER

Wet weather today is bad for the Farragut tablet unveiling at the commandant's house at Portsmouth navy yard.

It has been rainy all day, despite the weather bureau's insistence that it might clear off in the afternoon or evening.

The day is chilly. The mercury stood at sixty degrees at two o'clock.

CITY BRIEFS

Sloppy weather for Farragut's memory.

Have your shoes repaired at John Mott's, 34 Congress street.

The Sagamore Engine Company is to entertain the ladies on Aug. 29.

It looks as if there is clear proof that last night's burglars are tobacco users.

Local athletes are going over the course mightily for the Marathon race on Labor day.

The Dover city government seems to have had luck with rain on their annual outing day.

The gypsies are being made to move their camps in Massachusetts by the Health Board.

All roads will lead to the navy yard this afternoon for the unveiling of the Farragut tablet.

Beals Wright and Alexander are the finalists in the championship games being held in Newport.

There was a largely attended dancing party at the hotel Chamberlin at Kittery Point last evening.

The 9 O'clock Club has several new female members, but as yet the boys have failed to get a look in.

Beckett will be the leave after for York Beach and Allen for York Harbor in the game this afternoon at the Beach.

There was a great interest born in the $50,000 race at Rensselaer, and the big event was witnessed by many from this city.

Admiral George Dewey will find that there have been a great many changes at the navy yard since he was here before.

It is interesting to note the work of the bean insect. Pole beans have been destroyed, leaves and blossoms from the ground half way up the poles, leaving a vigorous growth of foliage and leaves at the top. In other words the beans are under hause poles as to lower masts, but are carrying plenty of top-mast. The bean house is either a poor climber, or else he got a sunspot of beans before reaching the cross-trees.

ARRESTED FOR CRUELTY TO HORSE

Case of Joseph Spinney Will Come Before the Court on Thursday Morning

Joseph Spinney, a well known truckman, was arrested this forenoon on complaint of Howard O. Nelson, state agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, charged with cruelty to a horse. The case will be heard before Judge Shanes in police court at nine o'clock on Thursday morning.

WILL BEGIN OCT. 1

Work to be Started on That Date by the Bank People

The National Mechanics' and Traders' bank, which recently came into possession of the Mendon block on the corner of High and Congress streets, will begin alterations on the same on Oct. 1.

Consequently one of the business firms now located there will be obliged to vacate in order that the proposed alterations may be carried out.

RYAN TONIGHT

This evening at Music Hall the lovers of dramatic art will have the rare opportunity of seeing at popular prices, Daniel Ryan, a star who plays to dollar admission in the regular theatrical season.

He brings a strong troupe with him and will give two appearances, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The play tonight is the standard comedy, "The Bunchback and the Lady."

THE DIPHTHERIA IS STAMPED OUT

Quarantine was lifted from the Last House This Morning

The last diphtheria patient in the city of Portsmouth was released from quarantine this morning. He is Master Ralph Green and lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hale, No. 3 Manning street. Sanitary Inspector W. P. Young states that from April 23 to July 1 there were fumigations of sixty-two rooms on account of twenty cases of diphtheria, and from July 1 to Aug. 26 of forty-one rooms because of sixteen cases, a total of 103 rooms fumigated for thirty-six cases of the dread disease.

There were nine July cases and seven August cases.

One warrant is out for a woman who is charged with breaking quarantine, but she is out of the city.

SAGAMORE ENGINE COMPANY OUTING

A Good Time to be Had on Aug. 29 at Rand's Grove

On Saturday, Aug. 29, the Sagamore Engine Company, No. 1, will have an outing at Rand's Grove, Dennis Beach. On this occasion the ladies have been invited and, judging from the plans under way by a hustling committee, the affair will be a most enjoyable one.

Numerous athletic events are down for the day and with good weather the members intend to make the outing one of the best in the interest of the company.

BURGLARS GET A GOOD SQUARE MEAL.

Food And Cigars Were Stolen Last Night At A Restaurant

This morning by thieves, who got in through one of the rear windows. They helped themselves to the food and evidently enjoyed a good meal.

They sat down to lunch and, after satisfying the inner man, the cigars were passed. It is not known whether or not any after-dinner speeches were made.

Nothing but the food and cigars was found missing.

The work appears to be that of somebody well acquainted with the place who thought they might gather some money. However, there was none in the place and the burglars decided to eat and smoke.

AT RYE NORTH BEACH

Half a Hundred Portsmouth Ladies Entertained at Hartford Cottage

A party of over fifty managed by several well known Portsmouth ladies enjoyed an afternoon and evening's outing at Rye North Beach at the residence of F. W. Hartford on Tuesday. Tables were set for thirty-three in the cottage where a regular dinner was served, after which a bonfire was lighted on the beach and various sports enjoyed.

Dancing was enjoyed from 9:30 to 10:30 when the closing hour arrived and the guests were whirled away in automobiles.

OBITUARY

Baby Badger

Daniel W. Badger, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Badger, died this morning at the home in Newington. His age was six months and nine days.

By another year Appledore Island will have a big cottage colony.

THE HOBO WAS WELL HEELLED

The Railroad Car Cleaner Woke Up A Walking Arsenal

The car cleaner at the Boston and Maine railroad yard ran into a surprise which was one that caused palpitation of the heart and a shortness of breath. The railroad man whose duty it is to go through and clean up passenger cars generally starts in a little early in the morning to do his dusting and see that the coaches are ready for the trip.

This morning as he entered one of the cars he discovered a man asleep on the soft cushions and naturally took him for a hobo but on coming nearer and arousing the intruder he found a walking arsenal. The man certainly was a bad one and looked as if he had been in a duel somewhere.

He carried an ugly scar on the site of his face and also two big guns, one strapped to his side and another under his head. On being woken up he quickly made his escape before the police could be notified. The man was an Italian and made it appear that he could not understand any English.

MARINES AND SAILORS FIGHT

Have A Battle On Badger's Island And Many Badly Used Up

One of the worst fights that has been seen on the Kittery ferry boat for a long time, occurred last evening on the eleven o'clock trip from this city to Kittery. It was a general mix-up of about thirty or forty sailors and marines and it reached its height when the boat landed on the Kittery side.

The fight seemed to be between the sailors and the marines and in the mix-up some of the marines were badly used up. The fight crowd were left on the island as the conductor of the car refused to take them on and it was feared that some of the gang would be seriously injured before they finished. It was a disgraceful affair at the best. The boat crew were powerless to stop the affair, although they made every effort.

The Portsmouth Furniture Co AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

Improvements at Wood Island Life Saving Station Well Under Way

The government will shortly complete the work of putting in 250 feet of launchway at the Wood Island life saving station.

AT DOVER POINT

Dover City Government Have Annual Outing and Clambake

The Dover city government held its annual outing at Dover Point today where they will entertain several guests from Dover and vicinity.

A baseball game is down on the list of sports between the members of the admiral and council and the city department employees.

At noon Peter Loughlin opens one of his famous clambakes.

WENT TO HAMPTON

The local wrecking train and crew of the Boston and Maine railroad were called to Hampton today to replace a damaged truck of a loaded freight car.

Farmers are beginning to cut their corn for winter fodder. It has been an exceptionally good season for this feed stuff this year.
